

DISTRIBUTION OF DIGITAL MATERIALS

Responsible administrator: Associate Dean for Academic Programs

Last updated/reviewed: 9/12/2019

Canvas, Panopto and Zoom are the centralized entities for collection, recording, and distribution of digital materials for HSOP and are managed by the Auburn University Biggio Center. Materials are acquired to support teaching, research, and study needs of HSOP students, faculty, and staff. The collections are made available via Panopto, Zoom and other means, and are primarily intended for live or on-demand access, including distant and on-site use.

Most of the materials acquired, archived, transmitted, or projected by HSOP are protected by copyright laws and/or commercial licenses which define and limit the permissible uses of these materials in various contexts. Because this array of laws and licenses is generally complex, and because much of the law is very loosely or unclearly defined, it is often difficult for students and faculty to determine which uses are allowed under the existing laws. Users should consult with Auburn University Biggio Center.

In short, Panopto and Zoom recordings may not be distributed to other entities without express written permission by HSOP administration and the faculty member featured in the recording.

For full disclosure of existing copyright laws, see:

<http://www.copyright.gov>

To review AU Appropriate Use policies, see:

http://www.auburn.edu/oit/it_policies/index.php

Violations of any of these laws or policies may be considered as an honor code violation for student pharmacists with resultant penalties. Infractions by others will result in appropriate sanctions.